United States' Recognition Is Given Franco

U. S. Formally Recognizes Government Of Gen. Franco In Spain

ARMS EMBARGO IS ALSO LIFTED

Secretary Hull Cables To Spain That U. S. Will Enter Diplomatic Relations

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The United States today extended formal recognition to the Franco government of Spain.

Simultaneously, President Roosevelt lifted the arms embargo which was clamped down on both factions in the Spanish civil war two years ago.

Formal Recognition
Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced officially at his press conference that he had just cabled the Spanish foreign minister at Burgos that the United States government is now disposed to enter into diplomatic relations with the government of General Franco.

Secretary Hull explained that this step constitutes formal recognition of the new government in Spain. As he announced that recognition had been extended, Hull received word from the temporary White House at Warm Springs, Ga., that President Roosevelt had just signed a proclamation lifting the arms embargo. Both steps cleared the way for resumption of normal relations with Spain.

It was expected that the president would name, possibly within a few hours, an ambassador to represent the United States with the new Franco regime.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Several additional parking meters will probably be erected by the city in the near future. The space reserved at Washington and Jefferson streets for the P. & L. E. bus will become available for general parking, it is expected.

March went out rather lamb-like, it appears to PA News.

There will probably be an increase in church attendance on Sunday. It is Palm Sunday. The following Sunday, Easter, will witness the record attendance in the churches for the year, it is indicated. Easter always brings a notable increase in attendance at church services. Many special services are scheduled during the coming week by the local churches in preparation for Easter Day.

Two large new motor buses were going East through the city, this morning, with a large sign on each, "Welcome to New York." They were evidently on their way to the metropolis to augment the large fleet of buses necessary to handle the immense crowd expected to attend the New York World's Fair.

PA News observed a car bearing a Minnesota license plate here last night. The plate was different in that it measured nearly a foot and a half across and was a bright yellow color with imposing black letters on it.

Ellsworth Dewberry, of the Youngstown road, aeroplane student pilot, accompanied by the factory pilot, started flying for Buffalo, at noon Friday, but had not gone many miles, when they ran into a blizzard, and turned back. They then flew to Alliance, Ohio, and encountered

Says Hitler Seeks To Force Nazism On Entire World

Former President Of Czechoslovakia Makes Speech In Chicago

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 1.—Adolf Hitler is determined to force Nazism on the entire world, according to Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia.

In a speech before the Chicago Bar association last night, Benes said:

"National Socialism, like Fascism, is first of all a reaction against rationalism, humanism and intellectualism as set up by the French and American Revolutions."
"Fascism, however, remains more purely Italian, than a world system, and is working for the regeneration of Italy, while national Socialism not only wants to regenerate Germany, but also to establish its political predominance in the world and to transform all the people of the world with the spirit of Nazism."
Dr. Benes left for Cleveland after his talk.

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, April 1.—Looking unusually tense and serious, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today watched the launching of the Admiral Von Tirpitz, Nazi Germany's new 35,000-ton battleship, as the whole world waited anxiously for his reply to British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's historic pledge of assistance to Poland against possible Nazi aggression.

The ceremony took place shortly before noon when Frau Ulrich Von Hassell, daughter of Admiral Von Tirpitz and wife of the former German Ambassador to Italy, broke a bottle of champagne against the steel of the new war vessel.

Start Building Home For Nurses Near Hospital

Five Story Modern Structure To Be Erected Near New Castle Hospital

ESTIMATED COST IS AROUND $80,000

Excavating Work Has Been Started—Will Rush Building To Completion

With excavation work started, the new $80,000 New Castle Hospital Nurses Home will be completed by the middle of August.

The building permit granted to Louis A. Haug, New Castle contractor, by the city bureau of building, calls for the erection of an 80,000 five story brick, steel and concrete building at 1000-1020 South Mercer street, next to the hospital building.

The structure will be fire-proof and equipped in accordance with state requirements for nurses homes.

Will Be Fine Structure

The home will include modern living quarters and up to date school room facilities for student nurses. When completed, the home will rank with the finest in the district. The building will replace the old New Castle hospital, located on what is known as Phillips Hill, rear of the present institution, which has been used by student nurses for many years for living quarters.

Throughout these years, student nurses have been taught in class rooms in the hospital and have been using the former hospital as their dormitory. With the erection of the new structure future Florence Nightingales will learn their profession under the best of conditions.

The contract was let by the Sisters of Third Order of St. Francis, Pittsburgh.

Engineer Gives His Life In Vain

Tries To Avert Serious Head-On Collision, But Fails As Freighters Crash

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 1.—Buried under the wreck of his locomotive, Frank Barbillow, 55, of Garrett, Ind., early today gave his life in a vain effort to avoid the head-on collision of two freight trains in Summit.

The firemen with him and the crew in the other engine leaped before the crash and escaped with minor injuries. Barbillow, the fireman said, ordered him to jump but refused to leave the controls in the hope he could bring the heavy train to a halt and lessen the impact.

Both trains were still moving forward, however, when they met. The locomotives toppled over with a dozen of the cars in train piling up behind. The wreckage tied up traffic on the main line of the Alton railroad for several hours.

Mussolini Makes Hasty Return To Rome From Trip

ROME, April 1.—Premier Mussolini hastily returned to Rome from Calabria today to keep a close eye on the eastern European situation, but he stopped at Capua to make this significant declaration:

"Neither printed paper nor ink can stop us, because above them are our will and our blood!"
"Il Duce reached the Palazzo Venezia at 2 p. m."

His return to the capital caused some surprise. There had been reports he would continue on to Sicily, possibly to meet Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Generalissimo Francisco Franco there at some later date.

Continue Effort To Agree On Mine Wages

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 1.—Failure of coal operators and United Mine Workers conferees to reach an agreement for a new contract after weeks of negotiating last thousands of workers in the Appalachian coal fields in the position of free agents today, their contract having expired at midnight.

Today one last effort to reach agreement was to be tried but there was no feeling of optimism on either side.

The point at issue now is whether or not the expired wage scale shall be continued—and for how long—until terms of a two year contract are agreed upon.

Operators were willing to agree on a continuance of the contract with the stipulation that it be for two years. John L. Lewis, Mine Workers and CIO chief, was opposed to the two year continuation for the old contract, although the Mine Workers were asking for a new contract of that duration.

Celebrate Lewis Day
Pittsburgh, April 1.—As their leaders negotiated to further improve a contract with operators in the bituminous fields, almost 100,000 central and southwestern Pennsylvania miners today celebrated John L. Lewis day, commemorating the fifth anniversary of the seven-hour day.

Confident that the leaders in New York will obtain the "best possible" contract for them, mine leaders here refused to comment as to the wage negotiations.

The present agreement with Appalachian district operators expired last night at midnight. If negotiations do not reach a satisfactory conclusion before the week-end is over, the miners will probably go on strike, virtually closing down every bituminous mine in the area.

CENSORED SPEECH TO COME LATER

Officially Announced Text Of Speech To Be Delayed Several Hours

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WILHELMSHAVEN, Germany, April 1.—In a lengthy address withheld from Germany and the entire waiting world for hours, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler made clear today that Germany may have to reconsider the Anglo-German naval treaty which restricts German naval tonnage to 35 per cent of that of England.

The attitude of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in making military commitments to Poland "may destroy" the agreement of Munich, he said.

"And," he warned in the next breath, "if any power wants to measure its strength with ours, the German people are always ready."

Beyond the implied threat that the naval treaty might be denounced and his charge that Chamberlain, not Germany, is upsetting the delicate balance of peace in Europe, there seemingly was little in the Fuehrer's speech to warrant the unprecedented but highly effective steps taken to prevent the address being broadcast to the world.

Order Broadcast, Cut

Berlin, April 1.—Sudden and unexplained orders from the German government forbidding broadcast of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's speech today long delayed worldwide distribution of his talk at Wilhelmshaven.

Arrangements were made for re-broadcasting of his speech by short-wave to the United States, but these were cancelled half a minute after he began.

Individual attempts were made to pick up the speech by private short-wave receivers, but these were fruitless.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Rebroadcast in the United States of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's address at Wilhelmshaven was interrupted mysteriously today a few moments after he began speaking and coincident with re-transmission of his speech from this country back into Germany.

The interruption apparently came from Germany and the most likely explanation advanced was that high Reich officials had learned that station W2XAD at Schenectady, N. Y., a shortwave affiliate of the National Broadcasting company, had been relaying the address across the Atlantic into Europe.

See Peace Of Europe Up To Hitler

Hitler's Stand To Bring Crisis

Britain And France Are Pledged To Aid In Defending Poland

BRITISH ACTION DEVELOPS ISSUE

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 1.—The question of whether Europe faces war or peace rests squarely on the shoulders of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

This was the view adopted by British government circles today as high authorities, from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain on down, eagerly awaited Hitler's reply to the statement made by the prime minister before the House of Commons yesterday.

In that statement, Chamberlain announced that Great Britain and France will give military support to Poland if that country's independence was threatened and if the Polish government considers it necessary to resist.

England's Stand
(Background note: In his statement, Chamberlain pledged full assistance to Poland in the event of German aggression. The guarantee will apply only until consultations now under way with other European nations have been completed.)

Hitler's answer, to be made at Wilhelmshaven, was awaited with keen realization that Hitler now must choose whether to collaborate with Europe or, in the British view, plunge the nations into "disaster".

It was pointed out that Chamberlain's revolutionary step has directly confronted Hitler with this choice, since the initial stage of the plans for a defensive coalition against Germany will have the effect of halting Germany's "peaceful" conquests of expansion.

Remarks Not Made Public

LONDON, April 1.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler began at 5:45 P. M. today (11:43 A. M. E. S. T.) an important political speech at Wilhelmshaven, Germany, which for more than an hour and a half subsequently was withheld for unexplained reasons from the German population and the rest of the world.

Within a few minutes after the Chancellor began his address at the ceremony of the launching of the new 35,000-ton battleship, Admiral sudden stoppage. A censored text of the address will be made available later, it was said.

At the beginning of his speech, Hitler's voice was heard clearly and distinctly. He spoke in measured phrases of the renaissance of German naval building activity of Wilhelmshaven, where the new 35,000-ton battleship Von Tirpitz was launched today.

Suddenly an announcer took over from the short-wave relay station and announced that there had been an interruption and that no explanation had been given.

Broadcast Music

The projected broadcast was on a short wave from Zeelen.

Late this afternoon, while the Fuehrer presumably was speaking, all German radio stations were broadcasting music. Nothing of the ceremony over which Hitler presided was broadcast.

The official text of the speech was not expected before 10 or 11 p. m. (4 or 5 p. m. E. S. T.)

It was assumed that a partial explanation of the unprecedented situation lay in the fact that the "highlights" of the address alone had been outlined in advance by the Fuehrer and that he planned a virtually extemporaneous speech.

The remarks will be personally edited by Hitler, it was understood, before they are released for publication.

Start of Speech

Hitler's words prior to the break-off, as summarized in English by an announcer who was to have given English interpolations during the scheduled broadcast, were as follows:

"Germans, compatriots: 'Who wants to rule?' the renaissance of Germany must just look at Wilhelmshaven, now again filled with the din of work, until recently a dead place, hardly with life, with a right to live or a prospect for a future."

And then—Silence.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAINING IN SELF RELIANCE

Here are answers to more questions about the baby.

Q. Might we not educate the first child somewhat against jealousy by cultivating independence and self-reliance in him?

A. Yes, indeed. Such measures for preventing jealousy or holding it to a minimum we hardly have emphasized enough. You see how difficult it is with the child who does not have the constant presence and attention of the mother, but who gets enjoyment alone and with others (when the new baby arrives), and the child who could hardly be happy except in the mother's presence and with her constant ministrations. The more the child has learned to get along without the mother's or nurse's attention before the second child arrives, the less this child should suffer from jealousy on account of the new baby.

Don't Hold Nose

Q. It is good to hold the baby's nose to make it swallow medicine? A. No, put the spoon far back into his mouth, pressing slightly against the tongue, and he will swallow. Be sure you have a good assistant who will keep the baby from squirming while the medicine is being given. Failing in this, ask a doctor or nurse to show you.

Q. Would you give cod-liver oil or medicine in orange juice? A. No, nor in any other kind of fruit juice. While the fruit juice might make the cod-liver oil or medicine palatable, it might also cause the child to dislike the fruit juice thereafter. How tragic that would be! It might do no harm to give the fruit juice after the cod-liver oil or medicine.

Relative Matter

Q. How is it that one or two children who seem to get more attention and affection in the family may still be jealous of the other child?

A. It is a relative matter. One child, with much more affection and attention than another child, naturally has the fear of losing that relative advantage; the moment he thinks he, he will feel more jealous.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WATCH 'EM

It's interesting strategy that the Nazis are using these days. When the United States cancelled the special tariff privileges enjoyed by territories Germany has just taken over, in addition, placed a 25-per cent penalty duty on all German imports into this country, the Nazis threatened to inflict reprisals on the United States.

They're going to wait a bit, though, before hiking their tariffs on American goods. Why? Because they want those sections of the United States that would be affected to put pressure on Washington to have our semi-boycott against German goods repealed.

In other words, their threat is an adroit scheme to create a clear-cut split in public opinion and develop a pro-Nazi bloc of sentiment among Americans. The reprisal itself is mainly a bluff, since Germany now buys from us only what she is unable to obtain elsewhere. Those "splitting" tactics worked in Austria and again in Czechoslovakia. One section of the public was urged to take sides against another part of the public, leaving the nation divided in the face of a common enemy. On this cynical technique, the early Romans built an empire. They called it the "divide and rule" policy. Another way of stating it today—and as Hitler and Dr. Goebbels might state it—would be, "In dissimilarity there is strength—for the Nazis."

Slack as their scheme may be, we place our faith in America's hard-headed common-sense and native skepticism to see through its disguise.

SPEED MANIA

He honked his horn impatiently, As if to show his rage at me; And recognizing power and pride To let him pass I turned aside.

A cloud of dust, and he was gone! At easy speed I traveled on And saw, as Wordsworth, on the hills A field of dancing daffodils.

At fifty miles per hour I gazed On pleasant fields where cattle grazed; Saw sheep at pasture unafraid And farmer boy and dairy maid.

And flanking us both left and right Were trees in blossom, pink and white And silver birch and babbling brook, At which he did not dare to look.

Too many were the charms to list Which Man-in-haste-to-pass had missed That he might boast at night that he By minutes three had beaten me.

"LITTLE SAMARITAN A very prominent churchman who weighed in the neighborhood of 300 pounds was taking a walk through a park and sat on a low bench. When he tried to get up he couldn't make it.

A little girl came by and offered to help him get up. "I'm afraid I'm too much for you," said the good minister.

"Oh, no," said the little girl. "I'm stronger'n you think. I've helped Pa up lots of times when he was drunker'n you are."

There's a scuttling sound in the attic, Rat eyes at the ceiling chinks. An old owl sits on the mantel place And solemnly blinks and blinks.

What's What At A Glance

Garner Looms Brighter On Horizon
Elliott Roosevelt Likes Chances
His Qualifications Are Peculiar

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Maybe Elliott Roosevelt was right in his recent assertion that Vice President John N. Garner is the leading candidate for the next Democratic nomination as White House tenant.

It's hard to believe that F. D. wants the Texan selected. They haven't been overly harmonious in their respective roles at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue and up on Capitol Hill. However, F. D. himself perhaps reads some writing on the wall. Anyway, when his own son gambles on the Lone Star statesman it's rather significant. For that matter, even Elliott didn't say that John N. was his preference, either. He simply said that he believed the latter would get the nomination, which was quite different from saying that he hoped so. If Elliott was right, if Garner does get that nomination, it assuredly will go a long distance toward proving the truth of the old saying that you can't keep a good man down.

Notoriously, if there's a job in this country which forecloses its incumbent against promotion it's the Vice Presidency. A couple of Vice Presidents (Teddy Roosevelt and Cal Coolidge) have graduated into the presidency and then been presidentially nominated and elected, but for a vice president to serve out his vice presidential term, and then to be presidentially nominated? That would be unprecedented.

A Strong Candidate

All the same, it's easy to see why Cactus Jack should be a strong candidate. There really are only two material counts against him:

1—He's been vice president. Perhaps he's good enough to offset that.
2—He's nearly 70—traditionally too old to start in on an executive mansion vacancy. Whether or not he can overcome that handicap is problematic.

Garner has peculiar qualifications. In the first place, strangely enough, his geography is all right. As a Texan, he should hold the Solid South together. Yet Texas doesn't sell.

The word "trivial" is it is stated, owes its origin to a place in ancient Rome, where three streets came together, and which was known as the trivia. class as a southern state as the southeastern group do. Therefore he shouldn't have much, if any, sectional opposition.

Secondly, while conservative, he isn't rampantly anti-liberal. Thirdly, the range of his political experience is almost unlimited. Most past vice presidents have been comparatively unskilled in party technicalities. He's a past master at the game.

Fourthly, he's a marvelous wisecracker. Things aren't so bad for a congressional party leader when he has a majority back of him.

Goes Way Back
But Garner was Democratic leader of the House of Representatives when his group was in a hopeless minority. His minority was split, too. The Democrats always are. The late Speaker Joseph W. Byrns once explained this to me—from his standpoint.

"We Democrats," he said, "have honest convictions, but we clash in these convictions. The Republicans never clash in campaign time. All they want to do is to break into office. They don't care whether they climb in through the cellar window or scale a drainpipe and enter by way of the attic. Once inside they may quarrel over the loot, but they're a unit in committing burglary. Our Democratic squabbling's done in advance—which is why they beat us on election days."

Nevertheless, Garner kept his split minority in pretty good order. In those days Garner's minority was a trifle too minus to be pleasant.

Yet a majority, if overly predominant, has a tendency to divide itself. The Republicans showed that trend. The talk was to the effect that an excessive majority was undesirable.

As a newspaperman I dropped in on Leader Garner to ask for information. He listened and then he said reflectively:

"Do you know, I'd rather have a topheavy majority."
He's funny that way.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

This month of April stands out on the calendar of American history.

For it was in April, 22 years ago, that the Congress of the United States declared war against Imperial Germany. Patient for more than two years against repeated provocations, President Wilson, in one of his most dramatic appearances at the Capitol, had reluctantly cast his gauntlet as the leader of his people, and Congress approved his decision with its Constitutional authority.

With that decision and that declaration made 22 years ago, our country entered another phase of its existence, one which was to transform it for better or for worse, and for which only the coming years will tell.

It was also in April, 30 years ago, that Commander Robert E. Peary realized his dream of a lifetime and stood on the top of the world. For 20 years the indomitable Peary had struck out for the goal that adventurers had sought for three centuries—the farthest North, the North Pole itself—a thrilling tale which never loses its dramatic impact.

Planting the American flag on the spot from which all directions were south, Peary had the whole spinning earth under his weary feet. And then he turned about and drove his dogs back through snow and ice to the rim of civilization, and it was not until five months later that the world knew he had won that race with death.

He had been fortunate as well as brave. He had had the breaks in luck denied to so many who had faltered on the long road, or who had given their lives to the romantic quest. One of the most gallant of all these was the Englishman, Sir John Franklin, who headed into the Far North with an expedition of two ships, the Erebus and the Terror, and with 134 chosen officers and men. Not one of them ever returned. Their whitened skeletons were found many years later, but the two ships were missing, vanished into space—the whole a mystery which has baffled all speculation for the better part of a century.

But here is a strange fact, the British brig Renovation, passing through an immense ice field off the banks of Newfoundland, sighted at three miles away, a huge berg. Upon this floating mountain of ice, lying not far apart, were two stout, three-masted wooden ships. One was on her beam ends, with only stumps of masts and bowsprit intact. The other, well up on the ice, stood upright, intact, with every appearance of having been stripped and abandoned.

The ice field was too formidable for a wooden ship to penetrate, and the Renovation went her way, her people firm in the belief that they had seen two ghost ships, the lost Erebus and Terror, of Sir John Franklin. Of all the puzzles and mysteries of the frozen North, this tale of the disappearance of Franklin and his whole company, and of his two ships that went out to sea on a mountain of ice, is the most intriguing and enthralling.

There's the roar and surge of adventure in many an obscure record. I know a true story of the last twelve years which puts it in small compass—a story, incidentally, which has to do with the Arctic. In a small town in Massachusetts, there was a small, methodical, patient man who was a teacher of physics in a high school. His universe had been reduced to the exactitudes of three laws of motion and the ex-agencies of caring for the furnace and keeping meticulous accounts.

He had two deep, burning ambitions, of which he rarely spoke and then only wistfully, as one speaks of the hopelessly unattainable. One ambition was to play the saxophone. His wife and neighbors squabbled that. The other was to be an Arctic explorer and that, of course, was just something to dream about. But he was a man of splendid technical abilities and did some fine original work on inner-combustion engines which found its way into government records.

One day MacMillan, reading the stout, Wisconsin-built little Bowdoin for the Arctic, needed an expert on certain details of Diesel engine construction and operation. The searches of the high school teacher came to light. The shy little man was swept from his school yard and home orbit. He was treading the Straits of Belle Isle on the threshold of the Arctic off for a year in the polar ice. Down in the shrouded engine room he clutched a saxophone big enough to bail out the ship and from time to time he tooted and croaked happily. In the Far North they were six months under the ice which shrouded the ship.

When spring broke, the mood of the six embattled men, bearing the engine, was akin to madness. All through the long Arctic midnight the little man had worked on "Silver Threads Among the Gold." At last he had it. As the ship hit the equinoctial storms, standing on her nose in Hudson's Bay, there came below the roar of the storm, the squealing of MacMillan's blue foxes, the clatter of horns ramming around the deck and above all this, came the raucous but triumphant beat of "Silver Threads Among the Gold." A member of that expedition told me that he had never seen such a brave ascendancy of the human spirit as this little man getting his fill of both adventure and music.

The Bowdoin found no mermaids or devils. Dr. Goddard Carnegie Institute scientist, collected data on terrestrial magnetism which none but scientists could understand. But the longing to know is just as deeply implanted as the desire to fight, to sing or make love, and on the whole, our adventuring has a lot more sense in it than the great expeditions of the past, not excluding the Crusades or Steadfast's search for the ice queen.

Declaring that "government is failing to do what it should for business," Clappison, organizing local units the country over, said that was why his organization was founded. He said the organization is non-partisan, but is a political pressure group—"unique in the fact that it seeks to decrease governmental expenditures rather than increase them."

Youthful Minister Was Member Of Rev. Stump's First Confirmation Class

REV. W. T. HEMPEL

Palm Sunday in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor, will be observed with several outstanding and unusual features. Instead of two morning services which is the usual order there will be only one English morning service and the catechisms which have been under instruction weekly since October will be confirmed by the pastor.

The confirmation is one of the most impressive services conducted in the Lutheran church. The vested choir will sing "The Holy City" by Adams; the altar and church will be suitably decorated with palms and white flowers.

The evening service at 7:30 will be a reunion service of the catechisms confirmed during the present pastorate, numbering 336. The special speaker will be Rev. Walter T. Hempel, a member of the present pastor's first confirmation class in 1925, and now pastor of the Lutheran church at McDonald, Pa. His sermon will be "The Magnificence of the Cross." Pastor Hempel is one of the two young men who have entered the Lutheran ministry from St. Paul's church, the other being Rev. Michael Golder, both were confirmed and guided through college and the seminary under the present pastorate.

At the evening service the vested choir will sing "The Seven Words of the Cross" by Lewars. The special soloist will be John H. Phillips.

The public is invited to attend these services which are held at the Salvation Army Auditorium at 133 Water street. The services will begin at 6:30 p. m. Miss Helen Wanstler in charge of the program. Following this program, at 8 o'clock there will be the regular Sunday evening Salvation meeting, at which time Captain Andreasen will speak on "Christ Triumphant Entry into Jerusalem."

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

FIND THE FEAR BEHIND YOUR CHILD'S NIGHTMARE

Night terrors always have their origin in some fear. Any parent who has heard a child scream out in one of these nightmares will hardly question that there is some fear back of it. Perhaps the child himself won't be able to tell you what that fear is, but it is well to try to discover what is wrong.

For instance, it may be that threats are being made in an attempt to get him to do certain things, and these threats have upset and worried him. Of course, if you, the parents have been in the habit of doing this, you will now realize it. It is very easy to get into the habit of threatening a child in order to get him to do what you want.

It may only be a threat to call the policeman, or to put the child out in the dark. If he isn't good. A parent whose conscience is clear on this score should be very careful of threats, especially young ones, who may use this method of controlling their child without realizing they are doing anything wrong.

It may also be that some such punishment may have been actually carried out. He may have been put in the closet in the dark, or out in a room by himself, and he lives in terror of this punishment being repeated. Sometimes, too, without any thought of punishment, a child is subjected to some frightening experience that leaves its mark. He may be left alone to awaken in a house all by himself or to find a stranger.

An emotional strain in the family will often be enough to give a small child night terrors. I have seen cases where there has been a death in the family, and there hasn't been enough care taken to protect the child from adult emotional excitement. I have known cases, too, where a new baby has arrived and the older child hasn't been able to get adjusted to the new situation. In this case, adults are often to blame for I have heard them tease children by telling them that the new baby has taken their place.

Occasionally, you find that the fears that have caused the terrors have grown out of some situation to which he must adjust himself. When this is the case, the parents can do a great deal by seeing to it that everything about home gives him a feeling of security and safety. Most children are afraid of the dark. Forcing them to go into dark places as a cure intensifies the fear. A better way is to give the child a flashlight when he goes into a dark room. This gives him a sense of mastery over the dark, for with it he can see that there isn't anything there to hurt him.

Remember, it is only when fears become large enough to make a child unhappy, or keep him from doing the things he would normally do, that it can be classed as nervous behavior.

FAVORS CANAL

March 31, 1939.

The News Co.,
New Castle, Pa.
Gentlemen:

Through the medium of our "News", I wish to state briefly the reason that I am in favor of a canal.

As a property owner and a business man, I am interested in the future of our city. When just a boy, I remember the buzzing wheels of industry, and we were in need of men to work in our plants. What happened? The Federal government, encouraged by the civic leaders of cities and towns located on the Ohio, Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, urged the canalization of their rivers. Their dream became a reality when by an act of congress this work was authorized.

The advantages enjoyed by these waterway cities was the beginning of the end for cities not on the waterway. The cities and towns on these waterways have advantages to offer new industry which our city does not now have.

Lower transportation cost on shipments received and also on outgoing shipments, certainly means that we in this city have no opportunity to bring new industry or justify the building of new factories. When a company contemplates a new site, it is only natural that lower costs of transportation enters into any new enterprise. We certainly are not on a competitive base with waterway cities and until such time arrives our problem is to fight to hold what we now have and to entice such industries that may not need low cost water transportation to our city.

The building of the canal across the northern part of the state of Florida is being financed by the Federal government, and the people of Pennsylvania who are the second largest taxpayers of the Federal government are paying their share for this program which benefits that section of Florida. We, too, should share in these benefits and it is important that our efforts should be united in our fight.

This canal will employ many thousands of men over a period of five years, thereby relieving the labor situation in our community.

Yours truly,
IVOR V. DAVIS.

New Wilmington High Honored Friday Night At Delightful Banquet

Close To 150 Persons Attend Fete In United Presbyterian Church

PROGRAM PROVES MOST ENJOYABLE

New Wilmington high school's 1938-39 basketball team, truly one of the greatest Class B aggregations in the history of Lawrence county, was honored in the United Presbyterian church dining room, New Wilmington, Friday evening, at a delightful testimonial attended by close to 150 persons.

Dr. Harold Black handled the role of toastmaster in a felicitous manner. Miss Lucille Purdy, a Westminster college student, scored a decided hit with two original readings. The clever presentations produced lots of laughter. Dr. Black introduced Dick Nelson, of the New Wilmington Globe. The toastmaster expressed the school's gratitude to the New Castle News and The Globe for the space allotted to the championship team.

Charles A. Landolf, New Castle News sports writer, explained how Dr. James A. Naismith founded basketball in Springfield, Mass., in 1891. He also cited the fact that the sport is played in 75 countries by approximately 20,000,000 players, more than any other comparative or combative sport. He also pointed out that approximately 90,000,000 fans filed past the turnstiles annually. He closed by complimenting the New Wilmington team for its fine record. He characterized the team as a group of true sportsmen who gave everything they had for the school, forgetting self-aggrandizement. He paid a fitting tribute to John Eagleson, coach of the team.

Coach Next Speaker
One of the most interesting addresses was delivered by Coach John Eagleson. He thanked the community and fans for their support throughout the year. He then presented award certificates to the following players: Mercer, captain; Frew, Newton, Shaffer, Clements, Evans, all seniors; Sharp, Wilson, Minner, Borowitz and John White, student manager. Eagleson announced that Sharp and Wilson will serve as co-captains next season. He also introduced the reserves: Pearson, Spears, Means, McLaughrey, Klumpp, Walter and Johnson.

"I believe a team plays better on a bigger floor. A large court gives a team more room to move around, thus giving it a chance to show its ability. New Wilmington is a progressive town. The community lacks a suitable high school gymnasium. I hope the time comes soon when the high school will have a large floor upon which to play," the genial mentor said. He thanked the newspapers for their fine support and extended optimism regarding next season's possibilities.

Washabaugh Speaks
"New Wilmington high school's team showed me more spirit than any other team I saw all season," Jay G. Washabaugh, Westminster college coach, said as he started an unusually interesting talk. He listed the virtues of a true athlete as follows: courage, obedience, loyalty, team spirit and sportsmanship. Through the medium of a story Coach Washabaugh pointed out that a father should find more time for his son. He wished next season's team success.

Jay G. Rudolph, principal of Union Township schools and a representative of the Lawrence County Athletic Group, the last speaker, offered his congratulations to New Wilmington's fine team after which he presented the County Class B championship cup to Captain Jack Mercer. Rudolph explained that the school winning the cup three times automatically wins it indefinitely. Bessemer has won the trophy twice. Union once and now New Wilmington. At the end of each basketball year, the Class B champs receive the cup for a period of a year, Rudolph stated.

The delightful event closed with cheers supervised by Jim McLaughrey and the Misses Helen Francis and Helen Whitman. The occasion was a decided success from every standpoint.

Dinner was served by members of the Young Women's Guild of the U. P. church. Rev. W. F. Byers, of the Presbyterian church, asked the blessing.

New Wilmington high's team compiled an enviable record. After winning the Section 20 championship, the "Greyhounds" defeated the Pitt stadium and moved on to the Pitt stadium and defeated every team they met on the spacious hardwood. Playing the Class B. W. P. I. A. L. tournament final in Beaver Falls, New Wilmington lost to Monaca as the clock ticked off the final minute and a half.

It is expected that eight teams will apply for a franchise at the next meeting of the league to be held Friday night, April 7, at the "Y".

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Aged eighty-four, yet a hunter. This is the record of J. P. Rea, who attended the sixteenth annual banquet of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association in the Cathedral. There were present a number of other gentlemen who either hunt or fish, among them being Bob Whaley, who, in the 70's, was a member of the famous "Nocks". O. H. P. Green, termed by Toastmaster "Bob" Wallace as "Fisherman No. 1 of Lawrence county"; also Messrs. Shipley, Shatnocker, Elliott, et al.

Among those to whom a bouquet was handed by the toastmaster was Jack Sines, former game protector and later in charge of the county game farm; "Jewie" Coen and "Rosey" White, Lawrence county fish and game protectors; and from Erie came Walt Pattison. Vic Connerly who likes to follow the coon chasing dogs and "Odd" McCleary, Harold Parker of Ellwood City, were also present as was Ken Brennehan, superintendent of the Jordan game farm. Skip Buchanan, president of the northwest division, Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's clubs and Seth Myers, both of Sharon were here.

Dr. Murland came from Bessemer and Lee S. Zedaker from New Bedford. Ford Smith, Greenville; Carl Wertz, Greensburg; Frank Norris, Butler; Merle Bideaux, Meadville; Gerald Munson, Lenoireville; Clarence Weaver, building inspector of the Game commission; J. M. Morton, assistant director of refugees and lands; Cliff Iman, fish warden, Butler and Beaver counties; Burt Odette, Pymatuning refuge keeper; C. H. Buchanan, Franklin; Les Wagner, Franklin; Dale Skinner, Evans City; Dr. J. J. Koehler, Presque Isle club president; "Dutch" McIntyre, Grove City, also were here.

The foregoing were not all the visitors. Indeed not. Others here were: Ed. Burkley, Cambridge Springs; Ralph Roberts, Sharon; James Simmons, a retired fish warden; Martin Burt, Ellwood City; Walter McGee, Scott and Walt club; Thomas Shaffer, East New Castle; and "Jimmy" Atkins, a great trapperhunter, and many others. Many of the foregoing who are officers of either fishing or hunting clubs were accompanied by club members and sat at reserved tables.

One of the niceties of the banquet was that the men who attended the fete brought their young sons. Many of the youngsters already know how it feels to reel in a trout or bass. The addresses they heard were of such an educational value that these youngsters will impart the information to other lads and in turn, may help to make fishermen or hunters out of them.

It is seldom that one sees one incumbent and two former incumbents of the sheriff's office hobnobbing together. However, Sheriff Ingham and the "ex's", Johnston and Pritchard met... Jimmie Cypher, a former president of the Sportsmen's association was kept busy while a former association president, Andy Dodds, occupied places along side of Register and Recorder Orville Potter and Prothonotary Jack Edgar.

To show how much officials regard the association it can be mentioned that the two judges, Walter Brubay and T. V. Dickey were there. Charles McGrath, the present mayor and former Mayor Charles B. Mayne were present. It was reported that William Jones, veteran fisherman was unable to be present account of illness and the hope was expressed he would be able to be on the fly casting line April 15.

In speaking of conservation, one of the spokesmen remarked there are 400,000 fishermen in Pennsylvania. Were they all to go to the streams on the first day it naturally follows that few trout would be left in the streams, hence the request of Commissioner Charles French that a fisherman obtain a supply for his own family but not for a neighbor. Another spokesman brought out the banquet was the largest he has yet attended this year which shows what cooperation can do.

There are many grounds posted this spring. This was in line with Save-The-Trout plan. Previously many persons fished for suckers and caught trout but even though the trout were returned to the stream, some died and lessened the catch. The sportsmen also were told in the meeting that the fish commission has an eye peeled for legislation harmful to the sport, such as gill-netting and spearing.

One of the keenest fishermen in the city is the Rev. Dr. D. Lawrence Ferguson of the Highland United Presbyterian church. The clergyman delivered the invocation at the Sportsmen's banquet. Several of the clergymen of this city enjoy nothing better than a fishing or hunting jaunt.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE MEETING MONDAY

There will be a final meeting of the City Softball league on next Monday night at the "Y" at 8 o'clock and after Monday night no teams will be admitted. All teams must have their franchise money and player lists in by Monday. It is anticipated that at least ten teams will comprise the circuit here this summer.

Armstrong Wins Over Day In 12 Round Knockout

Referee Stops Battle As Davey Day Goes Down, Both Fighters Cut Badly

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 1. — Henry Armstrong wore a plaster cast on his left hand today, his right fist was bruised and swollen and a slit in his eyebrow was embroidered shut, but he still was welterweight champion of the world. In fact, it was a savagely one-sided triumph that he scored, although he virtually fought his way into the hospital in defending his title against Davey Day, tough and game Chicago hewer, at Madison Square Garden last night.

Making his sixth defense of the welter championship in the last four months, Armstrong was boss of the situation almost from the first punch to the last brisk salvo, when Day finally crumbled to a gory technical knockout in the 12th of a scheduled 15-rounder, his face and body battered and his intellect fogged by a thousand punches poured upon him in an uninterrupted flow by the Negro. The latter, too, was bleeding and in pain at the finish, but clear-headed and on his feet. Day was dazed and on the floor when the fight was stopped.

Defeat First M. E. Team 39 To 33 Friday Night In Final Game At "Y" Floor

The Second U. P. church basketball team is being congratulated on all sides today for their fine achievement last night at the "Y" floor where they annexed the Class A church league championship by taking over the strong First M. E. team 39 to 33.

The First M. E. team won the first-half of the league season, and the Second U. P. took the second-half. The teams were fairly evenly matched. It was a fine battle all the way. ### Rambling Around World Of Sports

Local sport short—Most of New Castle's former boxers have managed to retain their fighting physique despite the fact that they hung up the mitts years ago and have been inactive, athletically speaking. George Perrotta is a striking example. The former hard hitting middleweight is a picture of physical fitness. He is nearly as slender as when he crawled through the ropes for battles with some of the top men in boxing. George Chip, middleweight crown bearer back in 1913, has not changed much, scaling about 155. Tom McMahon is unusually slender for a fellow his height. Tony Ross, another heavyweight, now residing in Pittsburgh, is far from round. Battling Terry, Patsy Brannigan, Kid Cangey and Babe Picato seem never to change physically. Tommy Jones has not taken on too much weight. It's usually the other way around. After forsaking a sport, an athlete takes on lots of beef.

Notice to ping-pongers—I have seen the majority of the best ping-pong players in the city and rate the following three as the best. Red Thompson, Al Jones and Willie Grommes. At the recent city tournament, held in the Y. M. C. A., Thompson emerged the champion with Willie Grommes the runnerup. A team composed of Thompson, Al Jones, Willie Grommes, Lew Gunton and Henry Weber challenge any ping-pong team in the city or countryside. This team has already beaten the Cosmos club twice and the Elks club. For games get in touch with Al Jones at the Y. M. C. A. Thank you, Henry Weber.

BOWLING DATE CHANGED
Owing to the fact that next Thursday is Holy Thursday, the Ecclesian duxpin bowling league will bowl on Tuesday night instead. It was announced by Peter M. Schirra today.

FROM ME TO YOU
By MESEALL.

Here 'tis the first day of April... that means to many the day of fooling. And believe you me they were at it bright and early this morning. Too bad the schools are out... it was always such great fun to try and pull a fast one on the teachers. Many of you no doubt have fond memories of tricks played when you were young.

To the gardener it means that showers will be more frequent... although if they are any more frequent than last week... let me out of here. The ground seems very well filled with water and the lawn rollers will be going 'fifi steam ahead' in a very short time. Flower seeds are being planted and grass seeds being sown. Tigated. Books by the hundreds are published with information for the dirt farmer... who is located in town... with a small lot, flower bed or maybe just a flower box, but they all have fun and that is what they want.

Here is an idea that we dreamt up the other night... when you are entertaining why not be different... serve your refreshments in a unique fashion. Take for example ice cream... instead of serving it in dishes, serve it in cones. Everyone likes an ice cream cone.

Now that spring is in the air and that brings thoughts about eating and picnic... we would like you to give the matter a little thought and if you have any unique ways of making a lunch or picnic more enjoyable... write them in. That is if you feel that you are free in giving out your recipes.

Even the utmost good-will and harmony and practical kindness are not sufficient for friendship, for friends do not live in harmony, merely, but in melody. We do not wish for friends to feed and clothe our bodies—neighbors are kind enough for that—but to do the like office to our spirits. For this, few are rich enough, however well disposed they may be—Thoreau.

Fluctuations In Stock Market

Market Prices Alternate In Nervous Session During Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service

NEW YORK, April 1.—The stock market went through alternating periods of rally and reaction today awaiting Hitler's speech and his reaction to the Polish pledge of military aid to Poland. Strength predominated at the close.

The session was one of the most nervous and erratic in months. After opening strong and turning irregularly lower under leadership of the list staged a rally in the last half hour when the German Fuehrer began to speak.

Trading was on a big scale of the session with the ticker lagging part of the time.

DuPont, which had been down 3 points, snapped back to show a net gain of over a point.

Steels opened strong, showed resistance to the selling and then scored gains running to over 2 points in Bethlehem.

Chrysler and General Motors rose a point each. Westinghouse wiped out a 2 point loss. Case Threshing regained 3 points to a 4 point fall. Allied Chemical slumped 6 points on a few transactions.

Amsterdam, only market open abroad, was down but failed to show the weakness of this side yesterday.

Bonds rallied with stocks after a heavy opening. Foreign bonds were quiet. Foreign exchanges were higher except for the Swiss franc. Grains were steady and cotton lower.

Annual Banquet At Slippery Rock Most Successful

Rev. Paul W. Chapin, Of Oak Grove U. P. Church, Is Guest Speaker

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—Most worthwhile and enjoyable in every respect was the annual banquet held last evening by the Young People's Council of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church for all the young people of the congregation in the church dining room.

Covers were arranged for sixty members and guests at long tables colorfully decorated in a green and white motif and decorative arrangements of pussywillows centered the tables. Miss Dorothy Barnett and Miss Kathleen Houk were in charge of the decorations. With Mrs. J. M. Houk as chairman, mothers of the young people prepared and served the delectable dinner.

Rev. Thomas G. Berger offered the invocation after which singing was capably led by Miss Miriam Wilson. John Meehan, retiring president, filled the role of toastmaster in an affable manner adding much to the enjoyment of the festive event. The fine program included: Vocal solo, Miss Vera Curry; saxophone solo, Jack Cooper; reading, Clifford Houk, and violin solo, Harold Houk.

High-lighting the program was a splendid and thoughtful address on "The Value of Youth," by Rev. Paul W. Chapin, pastor of the Oak Grove U. P. church.

Officers of the Council named for the new church year are: President, Robert Wehman; vice president, Warren Wehman; secretary, Miss Rhea Meehan, and treasurer, Miss Frances Worrell.

Asks Injunction On Strip Mining

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—A hearing is in progress before Judge Frank E. Reader at Beaver on an injunction proceeding brought by the Shirley Coal Corporation against the Old Furnace Coal company, both of the Franklin township.

The Shirley company is asking a permanent injunction to restrain Old Furnace from strip mining operations on a fifteen acre tract along the Connoqueness Creek, on the miles west of Zellenopolis. On the tract are a number of summer cottages and the popular Furnace polo field. The dispute is based on a clause in the lease whereby the original owners, William T. and Martha Wilson are said to have bargained the tract in question to mining operations.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Good Progress Being Made At Disposal Plant

Flood Wall Now Under Construction Reported To Be Nearing Completion

PROJECT IS 405 FEET IN LENGTH

Excellent progress is being made at the flood wall project in the vicinity of the city disposal plant, near the ward. This huge stone wall is being constructed to keep high water from overflowing the banks of the Mahoning river and stopping operations at the disposal plant.

When completed, the retaining wall, or stone dyke, will be 405 feet in length. At the present time, the dyke is about three-fourths of the way completed.

There are close to 100 men engaged on the project, taking into consideration the 10 men at the West Side quarry who are cutting the stone for the wall.

Many tons of earth are being hauled to the project by five trucks, and dumped in as fills, to bring the wall up level.

When completed, this wall will be a very sturdy one. Before any stone was laid on the wall, a deep stone foundation was laid along the proposed site.

When the present dyke is completed, workmen will begin the task of rip-rapping the earth dykes around the entire distance of the disposal plant property. Workmen began this week to remove sod along these dykes, preparatory to covering them with stone.

When the project is completed, the disposal plant will be protected from high water from the river, and unless a flood of gigantic proportions comes along operations will never need be interfered with because of high water.

Find Difficulty In Keeping Post Office Material

Stamp Collectors Watch Waste Basket For Rare Or New Stamps On Mail

Although an eagle eye watch is maintained by the staff of the Mahoningtown post office, material and writing equipment placed in the lobby just "walks away".

Pens, pen points, and ink wells disappear almost daily. Many persons never stop to realize just how serious a penalty could be imposed upon them for taking government property.

According to the postal officials, one of the big difficulties encountered during a business day is having pen points bent out of shape so that they are useless.

Quite a supply of money order blanks daily leaves the office. A lot are rightfully used, but most of them are destroyed. Young stamp collectors from the district enjoy rummaging through the post office waste baskets, in quest of a strange or new stamp.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

As a savings to taxpayers of Ellwood City, the Ellwood City School Board has asked the county treasurer to file the delinquent school taxes of 1933-34-35. Ordinarily this would mean filing fees of $3.75 if they were filed separately. As it is the fee will be but $1.25 for the three years. Taxpayers who wish to avoid having filing fees added to their delinquencies may pay the back taxes before May 1 to avoid liens.

The request has been granted and on May 1, all delinquent school taxes of Ellwood City will be filed for the years 1933-34-35. Ordinarily this would mean filing fees of $3.75 if they were filed separately. As it is the fee will be but $1.25 for the three years. Taxpayers who wish to avoid having filing fees added to their delinquencies may pay the back taxes before May 1 to avoid liens.

By the end of the present year the court house (that is the building itself) will be in the best shape it has been for years. Painting, plastering, decorating, repair work, roofing, electric wiring, all will have been completed by then.

Roofers are working on the court house roof, putting on 22 squares of slate to replace broken ones, the tin work is painted and the work of painting the building is being started. The wiring in the basement, an excellent job by the way, is nearing completion, and on Friday, the WPA notified the county commissioners that the work of remodeling the Boyles house would be started within the immediate future authority having been received to start the work.

The entire cost of the repairs and renovation has been exceedingly low and the county commissioners can be proud of a job well done.

Work on the WPA project at the Paper Mill is proceeding rapidly and when completed will be a piece of flood prevention and soil conservation. A similar job was done at Cherry street two years ago and the saving in property damage is large.

Frank W. Hill, county controller has returned from Harrisburg where he attended a meeting of the legislative committee of the Pennsylvania Association of County Controllers.

C.M.T.C. Applications To Close April 15

Youths Interested In Month's Training Should Get Applications In Now

Quite a large number of applications have been sent in from Lawrence county for training this summer in the Citizens Military Training Camps.

In view of the fact that all applications are given consideration in the order in which they are received it is urged that all those desiring to apply should do so at once. It is probable that any applications sent in later than April 15 will have little chance of being considered.

All those who are sent to the C. M. T. C. for the first time will go to Fort George G. Meade, Maryland. It is there that all basic and infantry training in the Third Corps Area is given. Other camps for the second, third and fourth summer's training are located at Fort Hoyle, Maryland, and at Fort Belvoir and Montrose in Virginia.

The camps will be conducted from July 6 to August 4 and will be thirty days of health, education and patriotism for those who are so fortunate as to have their applications accepted. The government pays all necessary expenses. The work done in camp consists of drills, marches, field maneuvers, organized athletics, schools, and indoor instruction. The four summer courses, that is the Basic, Red, White, and Blue courses cover the necessary instruction, which, when satisfactorily completed by the trainee, makes it possible to obtain a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps. At no time, however, during the period of training, is the trainee subject to military service because of the C. M. T. C.

Further information and application blanks may be obtained from Dr. W. F. Jackson, chairman for Lawrence county.
